Wednesday Prayer Priority

This week we are praying for our persecuted brothers and sisters around the world.

Amir received an alarming phone call as he traveled with his wife and a friend in the Middle East earlier this year. The caller, a member of an Islamic extremist group, warned Amir that they were watching his family and had seen his son attending church. The Islamist told Amir that if his son continued to attend church, Amir would “reap what he sows with his only son.”

The man also asked Amir what kind of financial support the church was giving him. “The only support they are giving me is the joy and peace of having Jesus Christ as my Savior,” Amir replied.

When persecuted believers like Amir face opposition from Islamic extremists, encouragement and support from the global body of Christ assures them that they are not alone.

Here are some of the ways we can pray for Christians facing Islamic extremists:

Lord, we ask you to...

- provide medical care for our brothers and sisters facing persecution
- furnish temporary and safe shelter for them and their families
- supply food and other needs according to your supernatural grace and provision
- equip our brothers and sisters to be bold witnesses for Christ, even in the face of danger and death
